

AMERICA AND CHINA.

America May Have to Take a Hand to Protect Her Vast Trade With the Chinese Empire.

Her $30,000,000 of Trade With That Empire Is Menaced by the Recent Russian Aggressions.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 5.—The cruiser Baltimore is sent to Tientsin as a precautionary measure, and not because there is any immediate necessity for the protection of American citizens, but sooner or later the government of the United States will be compelled to take a hand in Chinese affairs in order to protect our commercial interests in that empire.

Our total trade with China amounts to more than $30,000,000 a year and is rapidly increasing. Until recently we have had free access to all the open ports, like other nations, but it is the policy of Russia and Germany to monopolize trade wherever they can, and particularly to shut out England. Wherever this happens the United States suffers the same as England, although we are not the rival of any European nation and have never interfered in the politics of the east.

There is, however, a better reason for Russia to close the ports she controls against our commerce than against that of England, because we compete directly with her in breadstuffs and petroleum, which are two of the chief articles of import into China. Tank steamers bring millions of gallons of Russian petroleum from the Black sea, and when the Siberian railway is completed China will furnish a market for an immense amount of breadstuffs that may be grown on the plains of Siberia.

The present controversy in China grew out of the determination of Russia to divert the trade of Neu Chang to Port Arthur. Neu Chang is an open port, and the chief market for foreign goods for northern China and a population of from 30,000,000 to 50,000,000 people. Most of this trade has been done by British merchants, and they have annually imported an average of $3,000,000 worth of merchandise from the United States.

In the construction of the railway system Russia seems determined to destroy the commerce of Neu Chang and divert it to Port Arthur, which is entirely under Russian control, and will probably be closed to the trade of all nations. The United States will have to suffer with the rest, and instead of sharing in the increase of Chinese trade we shall lose what we have. The same results will follow the occupation of other ports by Russia and Germany if they succeed in their designs, and it will soon become necessary for President McKinley to assert the rights and dignity of this government if he wishes to preserve our commercial privileges in the east. Our interests are all with England, and the recent coup d'etat at Peking, if it is permanently successful, will seriously interfere with the export trade of the United States.

ASK $10,000 DAMAGES

The Western District Warehouse Company Sues the Illinois Central Railroad.

Claim Big Damages for Obstructing Their Door With the River Front Track.

A suit was instituted this morning in the circuit court here by the Western District Warehouse Co., against the Illinois Central Railroad company for $10,000 damages. The suit grows out of the river front extension made by the road last year up Third street, past the rear door of the warehouse, which leads into the cellar. The company's tracks pass within eight or ten feet of this door, and of the warehouse company.

The plaintiffs allege that one of their entrances is badly obstructed in such a manner as to occasion them great inconvenience and loss of business, and that, together with the noise, they have been damaged in the sum of $10,000.

R. R. depot, eight freight cars and ten cottages were totally destroyed. The fire was discovered at 4 o'clock this morning. The gas plant was also greatly damaged. The loss is said to be a million dollars, with amount of insurance not yet determined. The cause of the fire was doubtless an incendiary.

SUIT AGAINST A DRUGGIST.

Administrator of the Late Chas. Craft Sues C. M. Moequot for $10,000 Damages for the Young Man's Death.

Craft Bought Laudanum There and Killed Himself With it—Petition Alleges it Was Sold Contrary to Law.

Mr. F. G. Rudolph, administrator of the estate of the late Chas. Craft, who killed himself with laudanum last June 11th, this afternoon filed suit in the circuit court against Mr. Chas. M. Moequot, who keeps the drug store at Tenth and Broadway, for $10,000 damages.

The petition recites that the defendant sold to the deceased, who was under 21, three ounces of the poison contrary to the state law, by failing to satisfy himself that it was being bought for a legitimate purpose, and by selling it to the young man while he was intoxicated, his mind being in an unsettled state.

It further alleges that Mr. Moequot is not a registered pharmacist, under the laws of the state, and that the poison was not sold under the direction or supervision of a registered pharmacist.

The petitioner declares that the young man's death was due to the reckless, careless and unlawful manner in which the poison was sold to him, and asks judgment against Mr. Moequot for $10,000.

Young Craft was a son of Mr. Hugh Craft, keeper of the poor farm, and was not of age at the time the poison was sold him.

FISCAL COURT.

Mr. Sam Sneed Elected Keeper of the Poor Farm on the First Ballot.

Other Business Transacted in the Fiscal Court This Morning.

The selection of a poor-house keeper was the most important action of the board of magistrates in fiscal court this morning.

There were three candidates nominated, Mr. Sam Sneed, of the Florence Station section, Mr. Craft, the present incumbent, and Mrs. Thad Jacobs, who for several years occupied the place.

Mr. Sneed was elected on the first ballot by a vote of 4. Mrs. Jacobs 2, and Mr. Craft 1. Mr. Sneed was formerly a constable in Graves county, and is well known in the city. Mr. Craft had held the position of keeper for one year.

The keeper of the poor farm was ordered to hereafter give the inmates three meals a day instead of two, and the poor house committee and county physician were instructed to draft rules and regulations regarding the habits of the inmates.

Washington, Oct. 5.—The three regiments ordered to Porto Rico will have the effect of relieving the First Kentucky. The first regiment to be sent home from Porto Rico will be the Third Illinois. A strong pull was made for this by Illinois congressmen. It is very likely that the next in order will be the First Kentucky, although this has not yet been decided. The First, however, is pretty certain to be one of the three to be relieved. Gen. Corbin said today that the matter was left entirely to Gen. Brooke. When the boys return they will be given furloughs and then mustered out.

According to semi-official announcement from Madrid, the Spanish Government has been "stunned" by a report that the United States will demand the whole of the Philippines, and claims that such a demand is precluded by the terms of the peace protocol.

The United States government is preparing to call Turkey to a prompt settlement of the claims of American missionaries for damages to person and property during the Armenian riots. The United States does not accept Turkey's general disavowal of responsibility.

The Spanish Peace Commissioners were forced to consult Madrid about the representations made by the American commissioners at the second joint session, held yesterday afternoon. An adjournment was taken until Friday. The demands of the Americans are supposed to have related to the Philippines.

Chairman Jones, of the democratic national committee, has appointed a ways and means committee for the campaign, consisting of himself, ex-Gov. W. J. Stone, ex-Gov. John P. Alge, Senator W. V. Allen and Senator Henry M. Teller. W. H. Harvey will be the general manager of the committee's work.

Besides the cruiser Baltimore, the gunboat Petrel has been ordered to China. By reason of her light draft the Petrel can penetrate as far as Tien Tsin, where she may remain for the winter. Minister Conger reported to the state department Monday, but the dispatch was censored before being bulletined. He stated that anxiety was felt for the future and that some ministers were ordering marines to Peking to protect the legations. The death of the emperor has not yet been officially confirmed.

Another exchange of notes has taken place at Havana between the Spanish and American Evacuation Commissioners. The Spaniards again advocated April 1 as the earliest date on which it would be possible to complete the evacuation, and intimated that the United States can not control in Cuba until the treaty of peace is signed. The American commissioners in reply informed the Spaniards that the agreement for immediate evacuation is a part of the contract made between the two governments in the peace protocol, and must be kept; that there are no difficulties now in the way that did not exist when the protocol was signed. Matters may reach a crisis at a joint session of the commissioners to-day.

BIG FIRE AVERTED.

J. K. Bondurant's Broom Factory Guttered by Fire.

The Fire Department Did Valuable Work in Subduing the Flames.

The J. K. Bondurant Broom factory, in the rear of the Bondurant Wholesale grocery, on South Third street, between Broadway and Court, was gutted by fire this morning.

An alarm was turned in from box 31 about 4:45 o'clock, and the department responded quickly, finding the flames with considerable headway. In a short time they had them under control, the chemical engine doing splendid work, and the fire was quickly extinguished. The blaze originated from an electric wire, and the damage to the building is slight, while that to the machinery is considerable, as it was nearly all a total loss. The stock of straw and other material destroyed was not costly, but the entire loss is estimated at $2,000, only partially covered by insurance.

The chances for a destructive fire were great, and the department deserves great credit for the work it did. If the flames had spread, they would have gotten in a short time to the furniture factory adjoining, which is full of varnish and other inflammable material, and it would have been next to impossible to save the block, according to Chief Wood.

The plant itself was valued at $1,000, with $250 insurance, and four men, under Mr. Anderson, were employed there.

While the fire was being subdued the horse to the old horse reel from the South Side Station ran away, and the reel was smashed up considerably at Broadway and the railroad crossing.

INTERNAL IMPROVEMENTS.

It is to be regretted that the city council so unceremoniously shelved the mayor's proposition for street improvements. The Sun was not willing to support the whole proposition, but it is most decidedly in favor of street improvements and we believe that the mayor should be supported in his endeavor to better the appearance of Paducah's streets. The council puts itself flatly against any improvement whatever, and by its action Monday night says that the progressive citizens of Paducah need hope for no progressive measures while this set of city fathers is in charge of municipal affairs.

The question of building streets is a most serious one. There are many kinds of material to be used, every one of which has its good and bad features. The Sun would have been glad had the council agreed to lay a new street on Broadway from Seventh to the river with a storm sewer for the same distance. The council could have decided upon the best kind of street to build in the city and Broadway could have been rebuilt. After a test had been made on Broadway the other streets could have been provided for. We believe the people would be perfectly willing to vote bonds for the improvement of Broadway and for a new market house.

A new street on Broadway with a storm sewer, with granite sidewalks and a commercial line of poles for electric wires, would make such an improvement on Broadway that our old inhabitants would not recognize it. One can hardly imagine Broadway with no mud holes, no cobblestone gutters with horses stamping mud and water on unwary pedestrians, with no brick pavements of a large known and of innumerable depressions, with only a fourth as many poles to block the way and obscure the sunlight—but such Broadway could easily be, and it would then be the handsomest business street in Kentucky.

But our antiquated city council don't want improvements. They would miss the muddy streets, the disease-breeding gutters, and the numerous poles. They cling to the good old way and abhor anything that reminds them that this is a day of action and not theorizing only. The Sun regrets to see this disposition. We are anxious for the city to be put in a presentable appearance and we hope the mayor will not abandon his struggle for more improvements.

CALM YOURSELF.

In its reasoning the Register unites a Caucasian and a Mongolian and gets an Ethiopian. And forthwith charges the school board with a dastardly attempt to "sweep away the barriers of social distinction in the south." The school board should go slowly in this matter of "sweeping away the barriers." In the presence of this all important question the Broadway school house muddle becomes as insignificant as the alleged $557.50 crack in the foundation wall. This admittance of the celestial son of a civilization that extends back to the "time whereof the memory of man runneth not to the contrary" may be the one act that will make the passing of the white man's civilization in the south. Look away, as the Register says, "to Illinois and other northern states," and see the social degradation of their people. We don't know whether our city attorney, who hails from Illinois, held himself up last night as a "horrible example" of what the people of those states are coming to, when he decided that the Chinese must go, but anyway the school board must weigh this question carefully and allow no "opening wedge" to overturn the social fabric of this great commonwealth.

The timorous editor of the Register should calm himself. His descendants even to the third and fourth generations will have learned their a-b-a-b's long before mixed schools are permitted in this state. Yea, Paducah's streets will have been paved; Goebelism will have become triumphant and Wat Hardin will have been laid in his grave a bright and shining example of a satisfied life; the republicans of the Second and Fifth districts will have ceased quarreling and the last pensioner of the civil war will be resting under the sod, long before a mixed school will be found in the old Blue Grass State.

One of the school board last night in objecting to the closing of the schools Friday to allow the pupils to go to the battleship fund excursion, said that the office holders ought to furnish the silver service. He did not say, however, whether he referred to members of the school board with a pull on the city printing or not.

This republicans of the Second district should seriously meditate upon what a fearful state of affairs would exist should both of their "nominees" for congress be elected. National legislation would be blocked indefinitely while the solons at Washington struggled with the situation.

MEETING OF SCHOOL BOARD.

A Half-Chinaman Admitted to the White Schools by a Vote of the Board—Only One Vote Against It.

Supt. McBroom Makes His Regular Report—Half Holiday Was Refused by the Board—Other Business Transacted.

The regular meeting of the board of education was held last night, with four of the members absent, Messrs. Taylor, Smith, Allen and Walston. The regular routine preliminaries were observed, after which Supt. McBroom read his monthly report, showing the enrollment for the month of September to be 1,782 white, and 718 colored, total 2,500. It would have been three or four more white but some transferred the last week had not entered where they were sent. The enrollment shows an increase over September last year of 185 white and 24 colored, total 209. The average daily attendance for the month was 1,585 white and 573 colored, total 2,158; and is compared with September last year, for which there was an increase of 180 white and decrease of five colored, total increase 175.

When it is considered that for that 185 increase we have but three extra rooms, and one of them scarcely a half room, the wonder is that in the adjusting and equaling we did not have even more trouble than we did. The treasurer's report showed a balance in the treasury of $9,366.30. Miscellaneous bills amounting to $3,802.23 were allowed.

The bond of F. W. Katterjohn as superintendent of the high school building was accepted.

The bond of the Central Coal Co. to furnish coal for the schools was accepted.

Superintendent Katterjohn of the new school building made the following report:

Paducah, Ky., Oct. 4, 1898.

To the Board of Education, Paducah, Ky.
Gentlemen: I beg to submit the following report. Up to Saturday, October 1, Mr. Hymarsh has furnished material and performed labor on new high school building to the amount of $5,247 and I have given him certificates for the above amount, less 15 per cent., amounting to $4,460.

According to instruction from your honorable board, the dues have all been changed to conform with plans of Buffalo Heating Company and have changed the headers and trimmers around flues, and all are now done in good and workmanlike manner. Have also instructed Mr. Hymarsh to build the jambs in front entrance to receive the storm door. He has torn down corner of building that had cracked and settled, and has excavated two feet deeper for foundation, and your wall now rests on good solid clay. In setting frames for first story I found that the window sills were not according to plans, in that they were not but ten (10) inches deep, when they should have been thirteen and one-half inches but have overcome the deficiency by reducing the depth of the reveal.

I also found that the plasterers to carry the trusses were left off, and were not built according to plans, and I have had contractor to build up same from the foundation. I also report that I have contracted with Mr. Hymarsh as per instructions to change flues for $113.50, to rebuild cracked corner, going two feet deeper for $300, and reframing first story for $50.

I further beg to report that building is now progressing nicely, and all defects overcome that were made under contract of basement and foundation.

Respectfully submitted,
F. W. Katterjohn, Supt.
The report was concurred in by the building committee and was received and filed.
Superintendent Katterjohn was allowed $44.60 for services rendered as 1 per cent. on the payment made Contractor Hymarsh on the new building.

Supt. McBroom reported the following in his regular report: The white school, as provided by the board of education under the laws of the state, I submit to you the opinion requested upon the subject.

Since the law provides that "no white child shall be allowed to attend the colored school, nor shall any colored child be allowed to attend any white school," it becomes a question as to whether the child whose parents are of Mongolian descent or one of them is a white person, and as to whether the expression "colored," as used by law, means or signifies anything other than white. I find this explicit language used by the supreme court of the United States in reviewing cases of a similar character: "Neither in popular language, in literature, nor in scientific nomenclature, do we ordinarily, if ever, find words 'white person' used in a sense so comprehensive as to include an individual of the Mongolian race? I find also, this to be the well settled opinion of various courts upon this question, viz: That the words 'white person' as ordinarily used in the United States in their well settled and popular meaning and in contemplation of the law, mean, signify, and include only persons of the Caucasian race. It does not include persons that are of half white or half Caucasian, half Mongolian or a mixture of any other race with the Caucasian race. The statutes of various states, and indeed, the reference made by all United States statutes and courts of last resort, have construed the expression 'white person' to be a Caucasian; 'colored person' to be any person not a full Caucasian in blood. It remains undisputed that the distinction between 'white person' and 'colored person' does not depend upon the predominance of Caucasian blood, over that of any other race. And the classes to be understood as embracing these persons, commonly understood to belong to the colored population, embraces not only the negroes but the Indian, Chinaman, etc., where the color is not that of the Caucasian. Now these conditions being announced and accepted as the law, you will see that the Chinaman cannot be admitted to the white school, because he is not a Caucasian, and if he cannot be admitted to the white school, the natural inquiry would be: 'Where shall he go, if to school at all?' Manifestly, since he comes within the races that are not admitted in the Caucasian, but as colored, he must go to the colored school if at all. I am clearly of the opinion that that is the proper place, under the law, for him. It may be doubtless true, that the child with mixed blood may be whiter in appearance than the Caucasian, but the mixture of the races, in law, prevent such a child from being considered a white person. Therefore, that law which says that a colored child shall not go to the white school, would prevent the Chinaman from attending that school.

The decisions upholding the doctrines above announced, are numerous, the more conspicuous of which being in Re Ah Wup 5th Sawy, United States, page 155, United States v. Prettyman, 100 and United States v. Page 235. In Re Kansas Nian, Sixth Utah, page 239, etc.

Yours truly,
R. T. Lightfoot,
City Attorney.

Dr. Reddick made a motion to admit the child inasmuch as his mother is a white woman. The motion prevailed by a vote of seven to one, Mr. Well voting nay.
Attorney Lightfoot, on behalf of the silver service committee asked that the schools be given a half holiday Friday that the pupils may attend the battleship excursion. After some discussion the motion was defeated.

A telephone was ordered placed in Supt. McBroom's residence, he to pay half the costs. The board then adjourned.

DISCUSSION NOT ALLOWED.

In This Case Finance Must Not Be Touched On.

A couple of red-nosed, yet, withal, intelligent-looking, rounders stood in front of the quartered oak—not the mahogany, for mahogany is going out of style. They had placed in warm storage two beers each, and were getting ready for another.

"Yes, beer'll do."

"Same for me, but I'll tell you that there ain't any getting away from the fact that we need reform. Now, you take the currency and you see that the endless chain and the great quantity of silver that's stored in the government vault—"

"Here's looking."

"Let'er go. As I was saying, if the government don't do something to relieve the pressure on its vaults and—"

"Well, silver's good enough for me if I can get enough of it."

"But that isn't it. You see, the capitalist has the advantage."

"Oh, I don't know about that. It can only eat three meals a day and wear one suit of clothes at a time, and when he gets sick he hurts just as much as I do."

"But you don't know what you're talking about."

"Well, I guess I do, but there's a lot of fellows like you that always want to change the currency because you think the government owes you a living or something like a pension."

"But, you see, finance is a great science and unless you study it carefully you are not competent—"

"That'll do," said the barkeep.

"What'll I do?" asked the man of science.

"Arguing finance here don't go."

"What's the matter with you? Can't two gentlemen—"

"Not on your life. We've had three patrol calls here in a week, and we've cut out the speckmaking biz, see? Youse ducks start in good natured like and turn out to be yez see you don't understand, and then the other says you're nutty and off you twelley, and then one gits on his ear and the other says: 'You're a liar,' etcetera, etcetera. I'll tell you a three is wallowing on the tile floor and we get the credit for running a disorderly house. See? Dat's why der boss said not to let any gents carry on a discussion about the money question. If yer wants a bout fer points youse'll have ter hire a hall and fight it out wid empires an' bottle holders an' referees, but we can't afford ter have enny more hurry calls fer de patrol or dey'll close de joint."

WINE OF CARDUI

FOR ALL WOMEN

Nine-tenths of all the pain and discomfort from which women suffer is caused by weakness or derangement in the organs of menstruation. Nearly always when a woman is not well these organs are affected. But when they are strong and healthy a woman is very seldom sick.

McGEE'S Wine of Cardui

Is nature's provision for the regulation of the menstrual function. It cures all "female troubles." It is equally effective for the girl in her teens, the young wife with domestic and maternal cares, and the woman approaching the period known as the "Change of Life." They all need it. They are all benefited by it.

For advice in cases resulting special dress, address, or for a copy of the "Medical Advisory Department," The Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn.

THOS. J. COOPER, Toledo, Ohio, says:

"My sister suffered from very irregular and painful menstruation and doctors could not relieve her. Wine of Cardui entirely cured her and also helped my mother to reach the Change of Life."

THE MINOR PLANETS.

How They Have Been Discovered and How They Are Named.

Between the planets Mars and Jupiter there ought to be another planet, to satisfy "Bode's law" of the distribution of the planets, but there isn't. There is, however, something here which reconciles astronomers to the omission and saves the "law," namely, a large number of minor planets—432 are now catalogued—sometimes called asteroids and sometimes planetoids, the largest of which is less than 500 miles in diameter, while the smallest known are little else than huge boulders. Popular astronomy gives some facts and figures relating to these pygmies among the celestial bodies, some of which are rather interesting.

Up to the present time there have been 44 successful searches for asteroids. Ten of them have discovered nine or more of these small bodies; 14 have discovered between two and nine, and 20 have discovered one each. At the head of the list stands Palis, of Vienna, and Charlois, of Nice, each credited with 83. Dr. Peters, of the Litchfield observatory of Hamilton college, New York, discovered 47; then follow Max Wolf, of Heidelberg, with 33, and Luther, of Dusseldorf, and Watson, of Ann Arbor, with 24 and 22 respectively. Down to November 28, 1891, when Max Wolf first tried photography, 322 asteroids had been discovered with the telescope. Since that date only seven have been found by this means. Photography has raked in 93 in the last five years.

Thirteen of these little planets were found between 1801 and 1851. The number since discovered is 409. The year 1892 was the most prolific in finds, 28 asteroids being added to the list in that year, of which four were found with the telescope, the rest by photography.

The naming of the minor planets has given considerable trouble. In accordance with the old system of naming the larger planets and their satellites after deities in the Greek and Roman mythologies, the first discovered of the little planets were called Ceres, Pallas, Juno, Vesta, Astræa, Hebe, Iris, etc. This system was in the main continued until these names were exhausted; then names were given without any system, but always feminine names.

No. 12, discovered by Hind, in London, was named Victoria; No. 20 was called Massilia, the ancient name of Marseilles; No. 54 was called Alexandra, after Alexander von Humboldt. The first minor planet discovered by photography, by Max Wolf, on December 20, 1891, was No. 323. Wolf named this asteroid Erecia, after Miss Caroline W. Bruce, of New York city, who has so generously contributed of her means for the advancement of astronomy. To Miss Bruce the Harvard college observatory is indebted for its 24-inch photographic doublet, now mounted at Arequipa, in Peru, and Max Wolf was made happy by a fine photographic outfit from the same source. Asteroid No. 327 was a telescopic discovery by Charlois on March 22, 1892. In view of the proposed celebration of the four hundredth anniversary of the discovery of America he called the planet Columbia. No. 334 was discovered by Wolf, and for a like reason was named Chicago. No. 341, also discovered by Wolf, bears the name California. The last four to receive names are called Elizabetha, Edurga, Bertholda and Zaringia. Quite a number have not been named yet, and perhaps never will be named. The progeny is increasing too rapidly. In 1849 Dr. Gould proposed to designate these small bodies by numbers enclosed in a small circle, and this plan is now in use even with those which bear names.

ENGLAND'S GREAT SEAL.

Famous Dispute Between Lord Lyndhurst and Lord Brougham.

George IV. had one seal only, and when William IV. succeeded him there was some contention as to the disposal of the pieces of the defaced seal of George. The difficulty, says a writer in the Pall Mall Magazine, came out of the fact that when William's seal was ordered (August 4, 1830) Lord Lyndhurst was chancellor, but when it was finished and ready to take the place of George IV.'s seal (August 31, 1831) Lord Brougham was chancellor. Lyndhurst claimed the old seal on the ground that the transaction must be referred back to the date of the order for the new seal and that the fruit must therefore be

"LET US HAVE PEACE"

"Peace hath her victories no less renowned than war."
"To the victors belong the spoils."

To our customers belong the profits this week. We have met the enemy and we've got 'em.

WE HAVE SILENCED THE

PORTS of high prices by the bargains we sold to the trade. Our figures, at all times the LOWEST, now knock all the rest in the shade. From our dress goods may yet be selected some choice things in hot weather stuff, on which we won't quote any prices, though others do that for a bluff. These goods you can have as you wish them; yourself make the prices to suit. And when you have spent a few dollars you get a fine picture to boot. We are selling the handsomest DRESS SKIRTS ever sold in this end of the state; for less than the goods can be bought at, all home made and right up to date. Our LADIES WEAR pleases the fairest, and looks lovely on creatures less fair; Our styles, which are ever the rarest, "are charming," fair women declare. And the men folks never forget us, when needing NICE SHIRTS and FINE SHOES. They know we keep the assortment from which they can easily choose.

Our SHOES are the best and cheapest on top of the earth—or below—and every last pair is as "solid" as the rocks in the Forts of Morro. You may fancy this quite out of reason, but a trial will prove it is true. Just to wind up for the season, FORTY CENTS buys a LOW-QUARTER SHOE.

In GAITERS and BUTTONS and LACES we can fit every foot to a "T." "Cousin Georgie, how dainty your feet look!" "I wear Dorian's shoes—don't you see?"

Rich people are pleased with the beauty of our LINES, LACE CURTAINS and RUGS, and other folks think it a duty to follow the taste of "big bugs."

Our trade is increasing and healthy—our prices creating a muzz; we hold fast the trade of the wealthy, and "the poor we have always with us."

Our PICTURES—the GEMS of IMMORTALS—in every "sweet home" ought to be, when just for a few dollars' purchase, you're welcome to some of them free.

All will admit the above contains "more truth than poetry."

Everybody come to this winding-up sale of the season.

A street car company suffers perhaps more than any other corporation from the passage of counterfeit money. Many lead coins are deposited in the fare box, and the motorman cannot determine its genuineness, as he has no key and cannot take it from the fare box.

There is at the company's office a small bag of spurious coin that has been passed on motormen and dropped in the fare box, and there is quite a quantity of it. It is not an easy matter to get a motorman to cash a counterfeit coin now, owing to the explicit orders they have to keep a lookout for it.

There is one ambitious young man in Paducah who was too young to go to war, but he had the pleasure of being a soldier for a few hours the other night. The only thing to mar his pleasure was the fact that he had to be a Spanish soldier. It was on the stage, in "Remember the Maine."

He was one of the body guard of Gen. Weyler, and made a typical Spanish soldier, as he always managed to do the wrong thing, and when the captain said "Right about face," he failed to turn to the left. During the performance he had to "rub" the audience, and to cap the climax, when he was discharged from the service he did not get a cent—not even at the rate of $13 a month.

Capt. Bob Murphy, the one-armed recruiting officer, who came to Paducah last summer and made a great grand stand play, is still going about gulling newspapers with his imaginary experiences in Cuba. He now claims he lost an arm in the battle of Santiago while waving a sword in the charge up a hill. Capt. Murphy lost his arm a long time ago, and if he has no more self-respect than to indict such palpable pretensions on a helpless public, some of his friends should place a muzzle on him and chain him to some convenient post. There are enough heroes of this war, without having to manufacture them out of one-armed recruiting officers.

Some magistrates have an amusing way of transacting business. One story of the one who several years ago sentenced a man to the penitentiary from down in the lower part of the county, and started a constable to prison with him, is well known. He thought he had as much right to send him there as any one else, and proceeded to do it.

Several months ago another magistrate of the county sent two negroes to jail here. There was a mittimus accompanying them, but it did not state any charge. The men remained in jail, and when the grand jury met, there was nothing to show what the prisoners were charged with, and the grand jury, under the circumstances, had no authority to turn them loose.

The men stood a pretty good chance of spending the remainder of their days in jail until a few days ago, when the magistrate happened to come to town, and bethought himself of bringing the warrants. They were turned over to the proper authorities, and the prisoners are to have a trial this week. They are charged with robbery. They are doubtless forcibly impressed with the conviction that "it is better late than never."

The city has decided that it must do one of two things—repeal the law which says that a patient shall not remain in the city hospital but 30 days or have them all discharged at the expiration of that time, dead or alive. The report of the steward, read at the council, showed that one patient had been there for nearly nine months, while several others had been there for nearly as long. It would look inhuman to turn some of them out when they are in such a condition as many of them get, yet the law is plain, and if it cannot be enforced it ought to be repealed.

The present administration started out to inaugurate a change in the management of the hospital, and decided that no one but transient indigents were eligible to admission to the city hospital, this being the original purpose for which the institution was established. This would necessitate all others being sent to the hospital, which has never been considered a hospital, but more of a refuge for destitute people who have to be supported by some one.

In many instances, people with consumption are taken to the hospital, where they become too low to be sent away, and linger until death relieves them. This is oftentimes for months. Judge Tully, who is watchful of the county's interests, refuses to send such patients to the poor farm, insisting that their proper place is in the city hospital, and the only thing to do is to take them to the latter place or let them die without help or support. Thus, with law on one side and humanity on the other, the city physician and hospital managers, including the mayor, are left in a very unpleasant predicament.

A touching incident was witnessed on the Illinois Central passenger train yesterday forenoon. It illustrates what railroad men have to contend with, oftentimes, and how a kind act can be appreciated.

An aged man with his wife and five or six small children boarded the train about Central City. When the conductor came around he learned that the old man did not have a cent. It was his duty, under the circumstances, to put him off, but before the train was stopped the flagman, Tom Flynn, felt a compassion for the destitute family, and paid the fare of them all to Paducah, where they desired to come, out of his own pocket. In addition he gave the venerable man $5 as a starter.

The old fellow was so grateful that he sat down and wept at intervals nearly all the way to Paducah. Why he ever took his family aboard without money he did not explain, but he had not evidently seen so much money as $5 for many a day before.

The flagman is a brother of Trainmaster Jack Flynn, and one of the most popular on the road.

The attraction a man in uniform has for the average girl was exemplified the other day, when a young lieutenant now in the city, was out driving. Two girls in a buggy happened to meet him and the girls made it their business to meet him again. For some time they drove along around one block to pass the dashed soldier and his rig, until he finally went to his boarding house, and passed back into the kitchen where he saw them as they passed, and waved at them. A little further away the girls met a couple of other young ladies, evidently also bent on getting a glimpse of the officer, and the first exclaimed: "Oh, you aren't in it. He waved to us!" They seemed to appreciate the condescension of the military man very much. Next time it is to be hoped that he will both wave and smile at them.

Carl Von Schoeler, the sculptor, who recently returned from the asylum, has been missed for several days, in fact for a couple of weeks or more, from his accustomed haunts, and some of his friends have become alarmed at his absence and fear he has made way with himself.

He is safe and sound, however, according to one of his most intimate friends, and left two or three weeks ago, at the advice of his physician, for the country to spend three weeks or more recovering his health. He is expected back in the city shortly.

THE CRUSHED IDEA.

Scoured by the Scowling What-Is-It?—Homicidal Suggestion.

This is the story of an idea that went upstairs in one of the shops that offers to pay the highest cash price for Ideas, Notions and Beats. The Idea rang the bell of the door of the shop and said to the Frightened Boy who came out:

"Where is the man who does this business?"

"Have you got an Idea?" asked the Frightened Boy, who had been at this post a week.

"Thank you," said the Idea. "I am it. Where is the man that takes it?"

"Where is it, what's it about?" asked the F. B.

"I am it. It's all over me," was the reply.

"Wait and I'll see," said the F. B. The Idea said he would sit while he waited. And he did. The Frightened Boy returned and much to the astonishment of the Idea he was admitted, and when he stood in front of the Scowling What-Is-It? the Idea said:

"I have come in with some news. I heard it with my own ears, and came all the way downtown to give it to you exclusively. What's the price for a bang-up Idea just out of the nest?"

"You mean to-day?" asked the What-Is-It?

"No; yes; any old day," said the Idea.

"What is it?" asked the What-Is-It? The Idea looked all about to make sure he was still alive, and then said this:

"I heard it where I live, up on One Hundred and Sixteenth street, and I took the first train down. I've got it with me."

"That's pretty far uptown for us," said the What-Is-It? trying to imitate a second-hand thermometer in winter.

"But I heard it," insisted the Idea, "and I am of opinion it was heard elsewhere."

"Suppose you write it out," said the What-Is-It?

The Idea leaned against the window sill and wrote. The What-Is-It? read one and a half lines and handed back the copy.

"That's about that clap of thunder," he said.

"Yes," replied the Idea. "I got down with it as soon as it was over."

"There's nothing new in a clap of thunder," said the What-Is-It?

"Not when the lightning goes with it?" asked the Idea.

"Not even if a lightning rod was to go with it. We've used to it here. Have some of our own all the time. Besides, this particular bit of thunder that you heard was telephoned in an hour ago and the boy who let you in took it and has a claim on it. You are the steenth man that has come up here with an idea about that clap of thunder. The next time you hear a clap of thunder you get in the way of it and get killed. Then get it in here first, and we'll give you a picture of it. See? That's the kind of ideas we want—picture ideas! Unstun?"

The Idea, crushed, fled.—N. Y. Sun.

THE BURMESE WAY.

Their Simple Method of Obtaining a Divorce—No Legal Fees.

It is worth a moment's notice that while we, of this highly civilized land are perplexing ourselves in our efforts to find a simple method of obtaining divorce on grounds of "incompatibility of temperament," and are wasting much time and large money in litigation and lawyers' fees, the simple people of Burmah manage to settle the question without the least difficulty and without waste of substance. Recognizing the fact that marriage is often a lottery, and that in cases of suddenly discovered incompatibility, it always is, the Burmese man and wife agree that divorce shall be decreed by lottery also.

If a Burmese couple find that they cannot live in peace, and decide that they would best separate, the wife goes out and buys two candles of equal length. These candles are made for this especial purpose, and are the only "legal expenses" that need be incurred in obtaining a Burmese divorce. The wife brings them home. She and her husband then sit upon the floor, and, at a signal, each lights a candle. One candle stands for him, the other for her. The one whose candle burns out first rises and goes out of the house forever, taking nothing. The one whose candle burns longest, even by a fraction of a second, remains and takes everything. Thus the divorce is settled without any fuss or scandal, the general public is not annoyed by the contentions of the separating couple, and each is free to remarry.

There are, indeed, some lessons in plain common sense that may be learned even from the ways of the heathen who "in his blindness hews down to wood and stone."—Godey's Magazine.

Photographing Under Difficulties.

Photography, by the way, is attended with many uncertainties in Solu. The Moros are Mohammedans, and are unduly influenced by the remarks in the Koran on the subject of making pictures of living things. Furthermore, many of them believe that if they are photographed they are sure to die within a year. Most of our best pictures were obtained at a wedding feast to which we were invited. We smuggled in our dismounted camera, and under pretext of contributing our share to the entertainment by making artificial lighting, touched off magnesium powders and made exposures.—Century.

COLORED DEPARTMENT.

Mrs. A. W. Watkins left for St. Louis Monday.

Mr. Wm. Simpson is recovering from an injury received in an attempt of his team to run away.

John Moore and H. B. Davis are doing the big city of future greatness on the banks of the Big Muddy. In all probability they will be accompanied, on their return home after the big convulse of Old Fellows in session in that city, by distinguished townsman, Mr. Charles H. Brooks.

Most of the ministers, who were in the city in attendance upon the conference, have left for their several fields of labor. An important appointment was that of Dr. S. A. O'Neal to the St. James A. M. E. church at Louisville. Dr. O'Neal is a physician of many years practice, and has lived at Henderson, Ky., for several years; and this is the first he has received at the hands of the conference. The charge is said to be a good one.

The ministers had nothing but words of praise for the treatment received at the hands of our people. They found more latch-strings at all times on the outside than they had for some time.

BIG RALLY NEXT SUNDAY.
The pastor and members of the Husband-street C. M. E. church are preparing for a grand rally next Sunday. All members and friends to the cause of Christ and His kingdom here on earth are urgently requested to come and help on that day. The burdensome indebtedness of the church must be lessened and lightened. There will be services all day. At the morning service the pastor, Rev. G. W. Stoner, will preach. In the afternoon Elder G. H. Burks will preach at 2:30; and the pulpit at the evening service will be filled by some minister yet to be selected.

There will also be preaching at the above church each evening next week by the following well known ministers: Elders W. E. Glover, Monday; J. W. Hawkins, Tuesday; W. S. Baker, Wednesday; S. J. C. Carter, Thursday; and C. G. Hardison, Friday evenings. The public is cordially invited to attend all these services. Don't forget that next Sunday is the day of the rally.

Mr. S. A. Slayden returned yesterday afternoon from Mayfield, where he has been for several days attending the bedside of his wife. He reports an improvement in her condition. Her many friends wish for her a speedy recovery.

Elder W. E. Glover is preparing to have a grand gala day at the corner stone laying of his new church. The day and date of which will be announced later.

The church at Bowling Green, to which Elder L. B. Sims will go in a short while is said to be one of the best churches in the West Kentucky conference. It was the last held by De. Evans Tyre before being transferred to the West Tennessee conference.

Rev. George Washington, who was ordained an Elder in the late conference, is settling at his home on Husband street.

The next session of the West Kentucky conference, of the A. M. E. church, will meet at Louisville, Ky.

Mrs. Polka Dawson left last Monday on a visit to friends in St. Louis.

Rev. E. M. Moore, of Young's Chapel A. M. E. church, Louisville, was returned to that charge by the bishop Rev. Moore is a church builder and was elected to the position of assistant recording secretary of the late conference.—M.

There will be a business meeting at the First Ward Baptist church this evening. All members and friends are especially requested to be present. Rev. Goode preached at the above church last evening to a good sized audience. An entertainment will also be given there Saturday night to which all are invited.—B.

Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Overstreet, of the county, entertained the following divines yesterday afternoon at dinner: Bishop M. B. Salter, Dr. T. A. Thompson, Elders G. H. Burks, W. S. Baker and S. L. Howard, after which they were driven on the farm by Mr. Overstreet. All spent a most pleasant afternoon at this hospitable home.

Bishop M. B. Salter and Dr. T. A. Thompson left on an early train this morning.

TIRED OF LIFE.

Charles Estis was found unconscious at Macedonia church, near Pysburg, Sunday morning about 11 o'clock, when the people began to gather for preaching. He had taken a dram of morphine about sundown Saturday evening while on his way home from town, and the drug began to have its effect when he reached the church. He remained there all night and until found the next day. Drs. Prince and Rozzell were called, and succeeded in reviving him, and he may recover. ORDERLIES BACK.

Messrs. Bryant and Sinnott Back From the War.

Messrs. Zach Bryant and Joe Sinnott returned yesterday afternoon from Washington, New York and other places where they have visited since they returned with Gen. Wilson's brigade from Porto Rico. They are both looking well and have received honorable discharges from the service.

Both have enough war. They had a great deal of experience, and were in several skirmishes, but they do not care for more. They went to Porto Rico as orderlies to Gen. Wilson, but were mustered out as members of Co. K, Third Kentucky regiment. They will rest up and both likely resume the positions they held at the beginning of the war.

STARTED TO SCHOOL.

Chinese Boy Is Sent To Washington School.

The half Chinese boy over whom the Board of Education had a wrangle last night, started to Washington school this morning, and is attracting a great deal of attention among the other pupils. Needless to say he will receive a great many snubs, and more than one little nose will be turned up at him while he is attending the school.

The boy is almost as white as any of his companions and would never be taken for a Chinese child by any one who did not know it. His mother is a Miss Rutland, and is connected with one of the best families in the state.

HE HAD FEVER.

But it Was Not of the Yellow Kind.

There was some excitement on cannon ball No. 204, on the Illinois Central, last night. A stranger boarded the train at Fulton, and was taken ill, having a hot fever. He was from Mississippi, and came into Fulton on the main line. He attempted to get a sleeper berth, but was told by the conductor that there were about thirty other passengers aboard, and that if they found out a man from Mississippi was sick, they would all swear he had yellow fever, and throw him and the conductor both off.

The man returned to the ladies' coach, and there was some little excitement when it became noised aboard that he was sick. He was still aboard when the train reached Paducah, but none of the people cared to get too near him. He was likely suffering from a slight attack of malarial fever.

NEWS OF THE RIVERS.

The Bob Dudley left for Nashville at noon today with a very good trip for the present stage of water.

The street fair at Cairo, opening on the 11th, will be one of the most attractive affairs ever offered the people of Southern Illinois and Western Kentucky. It will be by far more entertaining than the "thread bare" exposition at St. Louis. The steam boat race which takes place on the 11th inst., opening day, with several famed steamboats with records for speed, besides many other new and novel attractions which have never before been presented to the people, will be features of the occasion.

TO CURE NERVOUS DYSPESIA.

To Gain Flesh, to Sleep Well, to Know What Appetite and Good Digestion Mean, Make a Test of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Interesting Experience of an Indianapolis Gentleman.

No trouble is more common or more misunderstood than nervous dyspepsia. People having it think that their nerves are to blame, are surprised that they are not cured by nerve medicines and spring remedies; the real seat of mischief is lost sight of; the stomach is the origin to be looked after.

Nervous dyspeptics often do not have any pain whatever in the stomach, nor perhaps any of the usual symptoms of stomach weakness. Nervous dyspepsia shows itself not in the stomach so much as in nearly every other organ; in some cases the heart palpitates and is irregular; in others the kidneys are affected; in others the bowels are constipated; with headaches; still others are troubled with loss of flesh and appetite, with the accumulation of gas, sour risings and heartburn.

Mr. A. W. Sharper, of No. 61 Prospect St., Indianapolis, Indiana, writes as follows: "A motive of pure gratitude prompts me to write these few lines regarding the new and valuable medicine, Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. I have been a sufferer from nervous dyspepsia for the last four years; have used various patent medicines and other remedies without any favorable result. They sometimes gave temporary relief until the effects of the medicine wore off. I attributed this to my sedentary habits, being a bookkeeper with little physical exercise, but I am glad to state that the tablets have overcome all these obstacles, for I have gained in flesh, sleep better, and am better in every way. The above is written not for notoriety, but is based on actual facts."

Respectfully yours,

A. W. SHARPER,

61 Prospect St., Indianapolis, Ind.

It is safe to say that Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will cure any stomach weakness or disease except cancer of the stomach. They cure sour stomach, gas, loss of flesh and appetite, sleeplessness, palpitation, heartburn, constipation and headaches.

SHE GOT THE CAPE.

The Saleswoman Helped and Love's Stratagem Triumphed.

"It did me good just to see them," the short, stout saleswoman said to the tall, lean fitter as the two met at the drawer where they were putting away things.

"See who?" was the inquiry made with a pin between the teeth, as the fitter measured inches on a coat shoulder.

John Bull—Let's form an alliance.
Uncle Sam—All right, John—have a chew of my Battle Ax.

The most solid and enduring alliance is one that is founded on the qualities of sincerity and worth, together with mutual respect.

Battle-Ax PLUG

is allied, in the minds of millions of men who chew it, with these qualities and it is respected by all. Will you join this alliance? 10 cents at nearest store will do it.

Remember the name when you buy again.

a big satchel along with them. "Believe I did see them," said the fitter without taking the pin from her mouth. "A bridal pair?"

"Going to be. About the first of the month, I think. He is helping to pick out the bridal outfit. The girl is young, about 19 I should say. She wanted a velvet cape, a shoulder cape, but she couldn't go over ten dollars."

"The idea of anybody expecting to get a velvet cape for ten dollars," said the fitter; "just like these greenhorns. How did it come out?"

"She wanted jet trimming, lace and all that for the ten dollars. The cheapest thing we have in that line, you know, is $12.50, and that's no great shakes. Well, the girl tried the cheapest one on and was delighted with it. She wouldn't be a bad-looking girl if somebody put decent corsets on her and showed her how to dress. The groom liked the cape, too. He told her she looked like a peach in it and praised her up so that she turned all colors. He even asked my opinion as to how it looked. However, she handed it off at once when she heard the price, but her face fell to zero, and she looked very nearly ready to cry when she said that after all she believed a coat would be more useful and picked up the ten-dollar coat she had tried on."

"Well, so it would be more useful," said the fitter, jabbing her pins in line an exact distance from the armhole and holding the garment to view. "Did she get it?"

"No; she got the cape," was the answer, "and I'm as much pleased about it as she is. That young fellow she is going to marry is a great, hulking clown, but he's got a big heart and as much delicacy as a duke. When the girl took the cape off and looked so disappointed he motioned to me behind her back, holding out a two-dollar bill, and then he said out loud: 'Here, miss, is that the lowest you could take for this cape? She's bought two dresses and a pair of shoes, and some handkerchiefs downstairs, and it seems to me you ought to make her a better price than that. The cape ain't worth a cent over ten dollars.'"

"I pretended to consider awhile, and even walked away as though I went to consult somebody in the matter. While the girl was examining the precious cape for the fifth, or sixth time, and I was behind a screen hanging up some cloaks, he came behind there and gave me the extra $2.50. Don't let her know, whatever you do, he whispered in a hurry. 'She'd never take it if she dreamed I had helped to pay for it. You make out that you let her have it for ten. It's her wedding cape, and I want her satisfied. Then I went up to the girl and told her that as it was the last cape we had of that particular kind we would let it go for ten dollars.'"

"Well, I never," said the fitter, dropping her pins; "I didn't know before that you were such an actress. The stage is losing by your being here in the cloaks' and suits' room."

"Who couldn't act with that young fellow so dead set for his girl to have the cape, and she so openly disappointed? She wasn't much more than a child! You ought to have seen her face when I told her she could have it. Why, she just lit up all over, like a sunburst, and she handed out the ten-dollar bill in a jiffy and went off wearing the new cape, as proud as though it was silk velvet instead of felours and was lined with real silk instead of farmer's satin."—N. JEAN INGELOW.

A Brief Sketch of the Late English Poetess.

In an English town by the sea, Boston, Lincolnshire, Jean Ingelow was born in 1820. The scenes that surrounded her early life were calculated to fit her for the work she afterward followed. Sounds of the sea, the doings of fisher-folk, the quiet stretches along the coast, the bloom of flower and the song of bird, as well as pictures of simple home life, find a place in the poems she wrote. It is as a poetess that she is best known.
